

HOFFMANN EITLE

Join one of Europe's leading patent firms!

Hoffmann Eitle is a leading international IP law firm with offices in Munich, London, Milan, Düsseldorf, Madrid, Hamburg and Amsterdam. For our Spanish subsidiary, Hoffmann Eitle SLU, we are looking for a

Chemist as European Patent Attorney Trainee

Requirements for this position are a solid scientific background in chemistry (Ph.D., preferably in organic chemistry or in the life sciences; post-doc experience appreciated) and an excellent command of English that you have acquired abroad. We are seeking a Spanish native speaker who not only is clear-thinking, efficient and committed, but also has the personal qualities to gain the confidence of our clients.

We offer a competitive salary and the required legal training to qualify as a European patent attorney, and excellent income opportunities after qualification.

Main place of work will be in Madrid, with the possibility to relocate to Barcelona at a later stage of the training. The training will also involve an extended stay in our headquarters in Munich, where most of the more than 60 chemists, biologists, biochemists and pharmacists of our Chemistry & Biotechnology Department are located.

If you are interested and have the required qualifications, please send your application including all relevant credentials, such as university education grades, scholarships and your publication list, by email to pbarroso@hoffmanneitle.com

For more information on Hoffmann Eitle, please see www.hoffmanneitle.es and www.hoffmanneitle.com.